AUDIOLOGICAL SERVICE CONSENT

Patient Name: _____

I give my consent regarding to the following procedures.

- ☐ Earmold Impression
- ☐ Hearing Aid Fitting
- ☐ Lyric Extended Wear Fitting & Sizing
- ☐ Cerumen (earwax) Removal
- ☐ Water Irrigation
- ☐ Lighted Curette

- Risks involved with ear mold impressions are very low. However, during the insertion of impression material into the ear canal, if precautions aren't taken, the impression material can potentially seep around the foam block and come in contact with the eardrum. At Concepts in Hearing, a thorough otoscopic evaluation is conducted before and after the impression is taken to eliminate any risk.
- Lyric extended wear fitting and sizing risks are rare and include abrasion, discomfort, soreness, bleeding, infection and pain. At Concepts in Hearing, the audiologist will monitor the sizing/fit of the Lyric product as well as the patient's ear condition at every patient visit.
- Cerumen removal risks are rare, however can include laceration and/or bleeding in the canal, and in very extreme cases a perforation of the eardrum. At Concepts in Hearing, we are very thorough about asking the proper questions prior to an earwax removal and take the utmost care when removing earwax.

The procedure, alternative, potential gains and risks have been explained to my satisfaction.

I consent to having been provided information regarding these procedures, as requested, and have had all of my questions answered to my satisfaction by the audiologist.
